Through her ministries of healing and education Rev. Dr. Courtney Alma Bryant seeks to empower individuals and communities to collaborate with God in the cultivation of just and whole communities. She is guided by her firm belief that, “We were created for freedom and relationship with God and one another” and focuses on ministry that makes that a reality for those she touches. Her scholarship, academic and ecclesial teaching as well as her preaching focuses on raising consciousness of the power that resides in our flesh, the divine activity of God in a fallen world and how humanity can collaborate with God in creating whole and just communities. She also teaches the importance of believers living into their identities as co-creators and disciples by creating loving relationships in the world and seeking justice for the oppressed.

In addition to and serving as the Pastor of Righteous Relations at All Angles Church, Bryant currently teaches Womanist Ethics at Manhattan College.
